
New Building At Arsenal

Expected to cost $5 million to complete, a chemical facility building is being constructed now at Joliet arsenal, it was reported by the corps of engineers in Chicago today. Rust Engineering company of Pittsburgh and Chemical Construction company of New York are working on rehabilitating previous facilities for the new unit which will be operated for ordnance by U. S. Rubber company when completed.